“马明，你一定要好起来！”妈妈始终默念着这句话，精心照料毫无表情的儿子7年零30天。在7年零31天的早晨，妈妈早早地来到了儿子的床边。她像往常一样，在儿子的耳边轻轻地呼唤着他的名字时，马明竟然慢慢地睁开了眼睛，用不太清楚的声音喊了声：“妈妈……”“儿子，你醒来啦？！”见到儿子醒来，妈妈紧紧地

紧地将儿子抱在怀中，泪如雨下。

半年后，马明可以下床活动了。一天黄昏，母子相扶在广场的座椅上休息，一阵风把妈妈的头发吹到了儿子的脸颊上，儿子轻轻地摸着妈妈的头发，仔细地看了看，忽然高兴地喊道：“妈妈，你的头发又开始变黑了！”妈妈将儿子揽在胸前，“是啊，你好了，妈妈也好了，一切都会好的。”

The Power of a Mother's Love

Ma Ming was in elementary school. One day, he was in a car accident and was taken to the hospital. After many hours of surgery, the doctor told Ma Ming's mother, "He is in a vegetative state, and it will be very difficult for him to wake up again." Hearing this, Ma Ming's mother fainted.

From then on, she took good care of him: making his favorite porridge, telling him stories that interested him, and saying his name close to his ear. Although Ma Ming was unresponsive, she persisted doing these things every day.

Day after day and year after year she did this, as the leaves turned green again and then yellow. Over time, his mother's black hair turned white. But Ma Ming still lay in bed without any improvement.

"Ma Ming, you will wake up!" His mother continued to silently tell herself. She had nursed her expressionless son for seven years and thirty days. On the morning of the 31st day, she came to her son's bedside as usual. As she gently called his name in his ear, Ma Ming unexpectedly opened his eyes slowly and spoke in a soft voice, "Mom..." "My son, are you awake?" Holding her son tightly in her arms, the mother burst into tears.

Half a year later, Ma Ming could get out of bed. One day at dusk, the mother and son rested on seats in the public square. The breeze was blowing her hair onto his face. Gently touching his mother's hair, he looked carefully and said happily, "Mom, your hair is turning back to black!" The mother took her son into her arms, "Yes. Now that you are fine, I am fine, too. Everything will be fine."
